

BEVERLEY OTTERY – ARTIST BIOGRAPHY 2016

I have always been interested in drawing and as I trained as a biology and geography teacher, my work involved doing many diagrams and maps. My artistic interests were therefore mostly botanical and landscapes.

In the 1980s, I enrolled in art classes and became very interested in still life. After I retired from teaching, I joined the Art Lovers Movement, set up a studio and began to increase my output. I really enjoy the variety of demonstrations that we have at Art Lovers as it helps me to broaden my approach to art.

Oil has always been my preferred medium, but this year I have experimented with various water mediums and pen and wash in a restricted colour palette. I draw my inspiration from the seasonal changes in our garden, and from living on the shores of beautiful Lake Macquarie.
