

I have always had an interest in drawing, though did not take a proactive role in developing my skills until I was in my late fifties.

I dabble in most mediums with a preference for acrylic. I have had some success with my art being purchased. Paintings have gone overseas and are in the collections of the Glenelg and Millicent Shire Councils.

To be honest I have no particular style or medium I am constantly experimenting, this is one of the delights and frustrations of this craft.

I have to acknowledge the very generous artists I have met on my journey. Those who have and are still encouraging and guiding me. Without them I would not have the confidence and knowledge to take a risk with the artwork I produce.

Chris Brown

